DUSTIN BROWN

Deputy Assistant Director for Management,
Office of Management and Budget in the Executive Office of the President

Dustin is a member of the Senior Executive Service and is the career lead for the Federal government's efforts to improve the mission, service, and stewardship of government through the President's Management Agenda. He helps lead the OMB's Office of Performance and Personnel Management which is responsible for leading several government-wide initiatives that require coordination across multiple agencies; improving the Federal government's mission performance outcomes; and developing Federal workforce policies.

Dustin helps lead a number of inter-agency efforts including improving the infrastructure permitting process, the security clearance process, shifting from low value to high value work, improving customer experience and improving program performance. In 2010, he worked with Congress to design and enact the Federal government's performance framework through the Government Performance and Results Act Modernization Act.
