

Use a TSP account lock to prevent fraudulent withdrawals

An account lock is the ultimate way to protect your TSP savings. When you place a lock on your TSP account, we won't process any new request related to loans or withdrawals. With an account lock, you can still access My Account normally, manage your savings, and change your TSP investments.

You can request an account lock by logging in to My Account at tsp.gov/login. When you need to access your savings, you can unlock it at any time with a 10-digit key that you create.
