

Linda S. Lentjes
Federal Managers Association
National President

It is truly an honor to serve as National President of the Federal Managers Associations. For nearly three decades, FMA has been an important part of my life – not only as a professional organization, but as a community of public servants who believe in strengthening the federal workforce and ensuring that federal managers and employees have a respected voice at every level of government. I am grateful to have the opportunity to work alongside our committed membership, our outstanding national staff, and the Executive Board as we advance the mission of FMA.

Professionally, I serve as the N8 Resource and Requirements Director for U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command/U.S. Fourth Fleet at Naval Station Mayport in Jacksonville, Florida. After 43 years of federal service, I have learned that effective leadership is built on steady planning, clear priorities, and a deep commitment to the people doing the work. Those lessons shape my focus as National President: growing our membership, strengthening our influence, and partnering with agencies and elected leaders to support policies and standards that help civil servants succeed.

I am anchored by my family – my husband, Curtis; our three children; and our four grandchildren – and I make time to stay active through physical fitness activities and volunteering at my church. That same discipline and resilience carry into how I lead: with gratitude, determination, and a clear sense of purpose.

I pledge to work hard as your National President to help build our membership and strengthen FMA's voice. The work of federal managers and employees is foundational to the safety, security, and success of our nation, and I am committed to making sure your contributions are recognized, supported, and represented. I will continue to work with federal agencies on policies and standards that are in the best interest of federal employees. I will also work alongside each of you to build and strengthen our relationships with our elected representatives, enabling us to perform the important work we do advocating for all federal workers and retirees. My heartfelt thank you for what you do every day.
